ANALYSIS

November 30, 1984

McCartney's run to the top is living proof that a bad movie can't hurt a good song. Hall & Oates will need a movie to get their line back (slim chance!). The Honeydrippers look like the next possible number one. The Manilow may have a tempo slower than molasses in January, but it's moving up the A/C chart like greased lighting. This week's CERTIFIED songs come from artists whose claims to fame have come in more youthful formats than A/C, but this time around the mood is right. Next week's debuts are certain to include: Stevie Wonder and a record that I think may be one of the year's most magnificent records, I WANT TO KNOW WHAT LOVE IS by Foreigner. Elton John's NEON and Linda Ronstadt's version of Hoagy Carmichael's SKYLARK are due to chart on a space-available basis next week as well.

you know; stuff that's way off to the left.
G.: Like who?
L.B.: Weeellll, of course I've been listening to Laurie Anderson a lot. I mean that's pop in a sense. I've actually been hanging out with her in New York.
G.: Really? I saw her gig here and she was amazing.
L.B.: Yeah, she was amazing at the Shrine (in Los Angeles).
G.: The band (Fleetwood Mac), they pretty much stayed close to the camp, but you, why have you departed so much?
L.B.: You can find a thread running all the way back to the Tusk album. I think one of the things that happened when Rumours ran its course over that long period of time, I was able to see the limitations of a huge commercial album like that, when people start equating music with the sales or when the phenomenon of the sales begins to transcend what the music really is. People are saying "Gee, this album sold the most of any album ever, it must be the best album ever made." You get somewhat of a discrepancy there, or at least there was in my mind. I mean Rumours was a good album, but it was not a groundbreaking album. It wasn't anything that hadn't been done by anyone else. So I felt a little uncomfortable with what I perceived to be, at that point, the possibility of being entrapped by the commercial machine. So Tusk was really just a reaction to that, saying, "Hey look! There's something else going on here besides just a slick commercial band." And a lot of people hated Tusk (laughter). And then a fewer number really appreciated it for what it was trying to do, in terms of not being bound by the limitations of a fairly narrow music.
G.: I think your two solo albums are more successful interpretations of that . . . When I think of Tusk, I think your two solo albums are better extensions of what you were trying to do back then.
L.B.: Yeah, well that was a first attempt and also it didn't make for a very cohesive record because, in fact, I've been accused of doing my first solo album from within the Tusk album. If you pulled those songs out, Tusk would make more sense within the context of what everyone else was doing on the record. So yeah, I think each of those steps have represented some growth, and I feel pretty strongly about this new project (Go Insane) in terms of not only having grown, but also of having gotten out of the little Fleetwood Mac microcosm for the first time.
G.: You know, when I listened to the first solo album, it seemed kind of wooden, as in acoustic, and now this second one seems technological. So you say you're all ready to do the next one. Is that going to fall in between the two?
L.B.: What I want to do is get back and use the guitar, but in different ways. If there's one thing I would complain about the way the album turned out, it's that at times it tends to be a little dense. I would like to minimalize a little bit. Sort of bring the camera in a little closer with a fewer number of things being focused on. I guess it falls into the "wall of sound" approach. In fact, I gave Laurie (Anderson) a copy and she goes "Weeellll, that's a pretty busy album," and I said "Well yeah, but your album Mr. Heartbreaker is busy." She goes, "Well, but mine is busy like a tree and yours is busy like a wall." (laughter). This album, I think it strikes a sort of balance. It is "tech," but once you really get inside, there's a certain amount of "high touch" going on in terms of the subject matter and even the songs themselves.

Tusk was really just a reaction...saying, 'Hey look! There's something else going on here besides just a slick commercial band.'

G.: When you say "high touch," what do you mean?
L.B.: Well, there's a whole theory of high tech vs. high touch, which says for every bit of high technology that is introduced or imposed on people's lives, there is going to be a need for the opposite, that is, a sense of human contact. The touch side of it balances. Most of the new groups who are embracing high tech seem unwilling, if not unable, to balance it all out with the touch side of it. So you find a lot of music that tends to be a little bit sterile or cold. I think there's a certain amount of warmth implied on my record.
G.: Backing up a little bit, during the 1975-76 explosion in Britain, how did that affect you, as opposed to the other members of Fleetwood Mac, since at that time you guys pretty much represented the establishment in music?
L.B.: Yeah, the things they were rebelling against. (laughter) I tell you, being in Fleetwood Mac, I can remember I had a constant battle with other members of the band, like Mick especially, who is probably the one I'm the closest to. I'd say, "Hey, listen to this, this is the Clash, listen to this, this is Talking Heads.," and they . . . I don't know . . . they never really embraced any of that stuff at all. Mick would just sort of look at me, you know. Trying to get them excited about any of that stuff was always next to impossible. I don't know if they felt threatened by it or what. There was a review of my album in Rolling Stone a few weeks back and the first sentence—
G.: That was a good review.
L.B.: Yeah! The first sentence really hit it right off. Chris Connelly said when most of the people on the west coast were taking the whole new wave thing as a personal affront, I was taking it as a challenge and that's exactly what it was. I wasn't directly influenced by any of those groups per se, but what it did was, it reaffirmed things that I had been feeling for a long time. I think when Stevie and I joined the band and that first album was just coming out, I can remember saying to her when we were still living together, "You know, this album . . . it's so . . . kind of soft and not too ballsy."
G.: (laughter) So what did she say?
L.B.: Stevie's always had a great handle on what people will like. Maybe because she has lived in so many situations, she really has a handle on what people will enjoy—more so than I do. I just take the risks. I do what I think is important and that's it and it consequently reaches a smaller number of people. But she said, "On no . . . people are really going to like this," and she was right! So when I see groups that reaffirm what I'm feeling inside, it just gives me that little kick in the ass to go out and just do it. It's been a constant thing, even on the Tusk album. When that was going on, the band reaction at the time seemed good when we were making it. But when it turned out it wasn't going to sell 16 million albums, then their judgment suddenly shifted and I was looked at, with them saying, "Hey, you blew it.!"
G.: What did you think then, were you hurt?
L.B.: Well . . .
G.: Did you stick to your guns?
L.B.: I am still very glad that album was made. I think it was . . . it was a slight comment on people's priorities, I guess.
G.: Was it heavy playing in a band with all the personal breakups going on?
L.B.: Well . . . (pause)
G.: It didn't seem to show that much on stage.
L.B.: The most painful period of time was during the making of Rumours, because Stevie and I broke up within the first couple of months of that album being recorded. John and Christine pretty much simultaneously broke up so we all had to . . and that album took almost a year to make . . . we pretty much had to . . . once again, priorities . . . put our personal feelings over in this corner of the room and deal with the work in another corner of the room. To keep those things separate was not the easiest thing in the world to do. When you break up with someone usually you don't have to see them. Four out of five people were going through breakups.
G.: Hardly an endorsement for the old rock 'n' roll lifestyle.
L.B.: It was tough and very painful. I can't say the dust will every fully

Lindsey Buckingham: Busy Like A Wall

by Kent Zimmerman/Jon Varnedoe

Lindsey Buckingham is doing it all backwards. Instead of all the years of scuffling and experimentation that usually precedes gigantic success like that of Fleetwood Mac, Buckingham has traveled the opposite route. Joining Fleetwood Mac was only Lindsey's second group affiliation (his first was FRITZ, with Stevie Nicks). After an overlooked duo LP entitled Buckingham/Nicks, he went on to record two huge debutante Fleetwood Mac efforts, one of which, RUMOURS, took its place as one of the world's all-time biggest selling rock 'n' roll LP's. It was then that Buckingham first began wiggling out from under what he ultimately saw as an entrapment by the "commercial machine." What followed was the controversial TUSK, then his first solo LP LAW AND ORDER, then a tepid Fleetwod Mac reunion called MIRAGE, and now his latest, GO INSANE. Somewhere in the middle was the forgettable double live Fleetwood Mac LP. Already in the future is another "more-guitared" Buckingham solo outgoing, plus more Fleetwood Mac misadventures. Unusually open and enthusiastic, these are his observations as shared in a recent interview with The Gavin Report.

GAVIN: So you grew up in Atherton (in Northern California); that's just down the road.

L.B.: Yeah, Atherton . . . a nice upper middle class boy.

G.:: How did you get into the business?

L.B.: Oh, I don't know . . . just lucky, really. I'd been playing guitar since I was about six. I just had my 35th birthday a few days ago. You know my parents, they encouraged the music. They didn't encourage thoughts of a career. They thought that was a little crazy, but it just sort of took over at some point . . . Stevie and I found ourselves moving to Los Angeles, which is something we never thought we would do.

G.:: Was she raised around the area, too?

L.B.: Well, she was from a lot of different areas, actually. Her father's job required him to move about once every two years, so she was constantly being uprooted which is not fun, but I think it led to her sense of adaptability, shall we say. She seems to adapt to any situation very well. She just showed up at Menlo Atherton High when I was a junior; she was a senior. I met her there and didn't see her until after I graduated from high school the next year. Then we sort of caught up to each other at the College of San Mateo and one thing led to another.

G.: Did you listen to a lot of radio when you were a kid?

L.B.: Sure. I think I listened to mostly my brother's 45's. I have a brother who's seven years older and was lucky enough to have one who started bringing home all the best rock. I think I started playing guitar when he brought home "Heartbreak Hotel."

G.: I had a sister who used to bring home Bobby Rydell records from the wimp rock era.

L.B.: (laughter) Well, I got in a little earlier than that, luckily. I think when that stuff started coming out, I sort of switched over to folk or something a little more pure, although I wouldn't call the Kingston Trio pure.

G.: Folk roots. What happened then? Were you actually playing coffee shops and places like that?

L.B.: No, I was not really much of a performer. The only band I was ever in was the one Stevie and I got into when I graduated from high school. I pretty much just learned on my own playing to records.

G.: Who were some of the artists you learned to?

L.B.: I learned my chords and things just playing to Elvis, the Everly Brothers, and Buddy Holly. Players like Scotty Moore or Chet Atkins, that whole style, seemed to be where I started . . . then listening to the Kingston Trio rooted my style in the finger picking method which I was never able to lose.

G.: Did you follow John Stewart into the days when he was on Capitol?

L.B.: Ummmm . . . not a lot. I had California Bloodlines, but no, I mean he was on a lot of different labels after the trio broke up. I sort of lost track of him.

G.: So, do you buy a lot of records? Do you go down to Tower L.A. and raid the store?

L.B.: (laughter) No, not really. What happens is when you're growing up and you're listening to whoever it is that is influencing you, I think you identify with those artists as people. They're almost role models in a sense. And I think the way you hear music and its effect, there's an emotional connection that triggers chemical responses. But when you find yourself making music as a profession, what happens is, at least speaking for myself, you tend to listen a little more academically, you're constantly taking things apart. You're hearing and looking for different things you can incorporate into your own work. So therefore, I don't go to Tower and buy all the latest top albums. I mean, once in a while I will subject myself to that (laughter), but I tend to listen to pretty esoteric stuff which I can draw from,

When Richland Talks, No One Listens

by Tony Richland

Stuffed and satisfied after a whopping feast of Turkey-Helper and reconstituted prune stuffing, we waxed nostalgic and ruminated on the upcoming holiday season. Waxing and ruminating are things we do a lot of around our house and the neighbors aren't too thrilled about it. Nonetheless it seems to be a nice time of year to contemplate some of the events which have shaped our lives, and an appropriate week to share the following strange, but true, anecdotes:

In 1962, a promotion man friend told us he was releasing a single which he and a friend had produced. He played it for my wife and me and we were polite as we listened in disbelief to a mariachi band playing a Mexican bullfight anthem. Feeling sorry for the dreamer, we cringed when he told us he was planning to augment the ditty with crowd noise. The record was The Lonely Bull and when the label name turned out to be merely the initials of the partners we REALLY felt badly about the lack of creativity.

Three years later, while working at Paramount Pictures, I was having my hair cut in the studio barber shop. Vince the barber had just bid farewell to the previous customer, a washed-up B-movie star who was reduced to hosting a western anthology series on television. When the actor was out of earshot Vince told me that the guy was planning on running for Governor of California. I broke up in a fit of laughter and informed Vince that I was thinking of naming myself Queen of England. Vince informed me that, if elected, the guy was going to make HIM State Cosmetology Commissioner. Vince DID become a state official about a year later. It's inconceivable, of course, but maybe the guy was elected.

The next year Dunhill Records released a single by an impossibly ridiculous looking group consisting of two folkie-guys, a thin blond and a fat lady. By the time of the Dunhill Christmas party of '65, the record had inched its way to the low nineties in Cashbox and I consoled the group's leader with comments such as, "Hey, you did better than anyone could expect . . . be happy you went THIS far, but if you're smart you'll dump this outfit, form a REAL group with four guys and get into the mainstream of the business . . . trust me, I've been around."

The obstinate character didn't heed my sage advice.

A few years later I was chatting with a program director friend from Bakersfield who told me of an idea he had to start a tip-sheet type trade to compete with the existing giants. When he elaborated, I told him to take the experienced word of a grizzled vet and stop before wasting any time or money. Nothing happened until several years later when the same ambitious guy was PD-ing KDAY in LA, trying to compete with the ratings of Drake's KHJ. He again told me of his concept and I re-urged him to get a grip on himself. The chances are slim, none and fat, I advised, and the idea of selling ads made the whole thing laughable. The stubborn guy went ahead with his plans.

Several years later I was in line at the bank engaged in small talk with the fellow behind me, an itinerant agent and promoter I'd seen floating around town for years. You won't believe THIS one, but this misguided nut informed me of his plans to open a store on Sunset Blvd. selling nothing but chocolate chip cookies. CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES! Can you believe it??!

Drawing on years of business acumen, I warned him that such a limited offering was doomed to disaster and I let him know how lucky he was to have run into me before proceeding with such a notion.

The guy got crazier and said he would promote the cookies like a record, with eye-catching graphics and an introductory party for the music industry. I shook my head in sympathy, humored the loser and went on my way.

Why doesn't ANYONE listen to me!!??? ■

PROMOTIONS

BETTY HOLLARS
LISA SMITH

ALL YOU NEED IS ENDURANCE

K104-SAN BERNARDINO, CA, has launched a "Hands-On" contest, reminiscent of marathons in the 20's and 30's. One person who can keep their hand on a new Camaro longer than anyone else wins the car and all the gifts inside. On Friday, December 14, forty finalists (whose cards have been drawn at random) will assemble at the Chevrolet Center in San Bernardino and touch the Camaro. The last person holding on wins everything. GARY ZANE, PD, says that medical aid will be present during the contest because the contestants will have to be awake 24 hours a day. There are also special rules regarding time away from the car for eating and rest breaks. Marathons of this kind have been known to last as long as five days.

GIANT HOAX

TIM WATTS and RANDY WELLS at KREO-SANTA ROSA, CA, had some fun a couple of weeks ago at the expense of baseball's San Francisco Giants, who have been put up for sale by owner Bob Lurie. The two decided to liven up a rainy Friday by announcing that the Giants and Sonoma County's minor league Redwood Pioneers were swapping franchises. Reports throughout the day announced that the town of Fulton, CA, would be leveled and a domed stadium built to house the new minor-league Giants franchise. RANDY CHAMBERS, PD, claims the phones at KREO were ringing off the hook! WATTS, who later confessed to the spoof on the air, said, "It was a rainy, rotten Friday and we wanted to give the people something to talk about."

DE-EMPHASIZING DRINKING

WFIL and WUSL inPHILADELPHIA are making it formal policy of the stations not to advertise "Happy Hours" and/or air club spots which stress or encourage drinking. To carry out this unsolicited policy, the stations will encourage club owners to promote differently, stressing the music, fun and other unique aspects of their club operation without targeting on excessive drinking. WUSL and WFIL will work with clubs to develop alternative advertising campaigns which will not advertise "Happy Hours," cheap drinks or beer, two-for-one offers, and similar offers. "Too many young people are dying in accidents resulting from drunk driving," expresses BRUCE HOLBERG, G.M. "We are taking these steps to de-glamorize drinking."

Contestants "rocking" outside a stereo store while Robin Phillips (far right) prepares to go on the air live during CJME's Rocktober Rockoff.

ROCKING THE NIGHT AWAY

Z99 (CJME) in REGINA, CANADA, held their annual Rocktober Rockoff (annual rocking chair marathon) this past month. Rockers endured 84 hours of non-stop rocking until there was only one rocker left. Z99's ROBIN PHILLIPS went on the air live from the stereo store where the contest was held. The lucky winner received a stereo system and 99 albums.

TRIVIA AT WIP

WIP listeneres are teaming up (one team during morning drive, one team during afternoon drive) to play "team trivia." PHILADELPHIA businesses register teams of four people from their office by sending cards to the station to be drawn at random for the teams to play. Two questions are asked of each team in the morning and afternoon, and the team with the most points at the end of the week wins the chance to compete again next week. If a team wins for three weeks, in addition to various prizes, their team will be crowned "Trivia Champs."

THE BEST OF THE ROCKIES

During the weekend of November 9th, WMMS-CLEVELAND participated in the 25th Annual Cleveland Ski and Winter Sports Fair. Listeners were invited to stop by the WMMS booth and register to win the WMMS Ski Fair Grand Prize: a vacation in Keystone, Colorado. The second prize winner received a pair of personalized custom skis.

ANALYSIS

Go through this week's Top 40 and you'll notice how volatile the chart gets around this time of year. A stack of new releases have put on the pressure, causing some entries to peak earlier than they might have during less competitive periods. MADONNA currently boasts 31 stations who have it top 5, with number one's at KIIS/FM, L.A., KS103-San Diego, WBEN/FM-Buffalo, KYNO-Fresno, WCCC-Hartford, WKPE-Orleans. KYNG-Coos Bay,I-95-Miami, WGAA-Cedartown, WBAM-Montgomery, with many more sure to come in the next several weeks. JULIAN LENNON's "Hit Factor" goes over the 80% mark...sure to go higher. As many of you expected, BRYAN ADAMS is proving to be a tremendous "radio" record, charted in the top twenty by 96 of the 242 stations reporting it. Don't penalize JERMAINE JACKSON for a one point jump... he's lookin' real good. At the moment, he's caught in that all too familiar jam midway up the Top 40, but stats are super. Top 10 in DC at WASH, FM102-Sacramento, KO93-Modesto, WJZR-Charlotte, in addition to a 49% "Hit Factor" SHEILA E. doubles in "Hit Factor" finally breaking through the crowded pack she's had to contend with the past month. BAILEY AND COLLINS look awesome in the early going, adding another 39 stations for a total of 234 reports. Instant acceptance in varied markets demonstrates its huge potential. FOREIGNER not only enters "Chartbound" and the "Most Added" categories, but does so with distinction. Only two records in Gavin Report history have received more than 200 adds in one week...they were CULTURE CLUB "Miss Me Blind" (202) and JACKSONS "State Of Shock"(204). Coincidently, both happen to be on the Epic label. But FOREIGNER has now shattered that statistic, becoming our "Most Added" record ever in its debut week, scoring a stunning total 206 adds. Nice growth pattern on ASHFORD & SIMPSON, our "Record To Watch" a few weeks back. New at WBBQ, Q104, Z106, Q107, KSLY, KRLA and KITS...moves 24-19 at Z100-New York, 30-20 WJJB-Poughkeepsie, 19-12 WJLK-Asbury Park, and #8 WKTU, #12-WBEN, #11-WTIC, etc. R&B three-week trend on MIDNIGHT STAR is 23-15-7. Moves into the "Up & Coming" section with 19 adds, including WFXZ, WPFR, KIIS/FM, KITS, KS103, WKCI, WTIC, KIKI, WBBQ, WPFM, WQTU, WTYX, B-97, Q104, WFMI, WKDQ, KZZB, KRIO, WDEK, following much the same pattern as their giant hit "Freak-A-Zoid".

STEVIE WONDER
The original title for his song, MY CHERI AMOUR, was OH MY MARSHA. It was originally a B side to I DON'T KNOW WHY I LOVE YOU.

TOM PETTY
He broke his hand a few months ago punching a studio wall during the recording of his next LP. His doctor says it will be at least nine months before he can resume normal guitar playing.

DIANA ROSS
When she left the Supremes she was replaced by Jean Terrell, sister of heavyweight boxer Ernie Terrell.

Kool & The Gang

STRAY CATS
Brian Setzer will join the Honeydrippers for their "Saturday Night Live" appearance, December 15th. Setzer has left the Stray Cats to pursue a solo career.

JOURNEY
Despite rumors of a break-up, the S.F. band is working on a new LP together and can be seen in the closing shots of Steve Perry's new video, "FOOLISH HEART."

JOHN CAFFERTY & THE BEAVER BROWN BAND
Apparently Beaver Brown is the color of paint in the band's New Jersey beach house.

GREG KIHN
His first solo LP to be distributed by EMI, will be released before Spring and will likely be titled "Citizen Kihn."

JOHN LENNON
December 8th, 1980, John Lennon was assassinated by Mark David Chapman.

NEW Releases

Fight Fire With Fire/Ride The Lightning/Trapped Under Fire-Metallica (Elektra) METALLICA gets their first major label shot at the plate. If you remember the infamous GAVIN Heavy Metal story in August, you'll recall us mentioning METALLICA as a solid up-and-comer while still a small-label cult band. These guys have left their studded jock straps at home. They're here to play! The musicianship is top notch and the material is unrefined--- just the way the SCORPIONS were when ULRICH ROTH played with them on the Tokyo LIVE LP. Be forewarned, the music is intense and void of any glamorous pretensions. If this band gets a few more albums to develop and polish-up, the result will be very special indeed. Check it out! I hear MIKE BONE does his aerobics to this record.

Call To The Heart/Do Me Right/Don't Tear Me Down-Guiffria (Camel/MCA) When the needle fell on the first song it was raining synthesizers within our four walls. I've been told GREG GIUFFRIA played in that seventies Glam band, ANGEL (on Casablanca Records). Right now though, GIUFFRIA'S sound is balancing a passionate vocal behind a wall of keyboards - along with a warm back drop of non-grating guitars. A smooth hard rock, if you will. Top Forty is flirting with the single, "Call To The Heart", probably attracted by GIUFFRIA'S well constructed vocal hook.

42 Wheels/Betty's Worry-Hunters & Collectors-(Slash) Definitely for those who like to walk on the Alternative side, this band is a sight to see. They come from Australia and were accepted by the same fans who catapulted MIDNIGHT OIL into down under mega-stardom. Along with MIDNIGHT OIL, INXS, and THE CHURCH, HUNTERS and COLLECTORS blend concept without compromise. They stand well apart from the pack, playing instruments as diverse as empty oxygen tanks and such.H & C's latest album is easier to listen to, as famed German producer CONNY PLANK smoothed out their sound a bit. Onstage, H&C look like some of MAD MAX'S pals and when the horn players kick in, it's a sight to see and hear. When the revolution comes, these guys will be changing the diesel truck tires.

ANALYSIS

The TOP OF THE CHART is like the SAN DIEGO FREEWAY during rush hour. There's no room to move inside the TOP EIGHT, so says PETER STANDISH and KEITH ZIMMERMAN who assembled this chart in my absence. BENATAR, KINKS, and HENLEY all retain their underlines because they all exhibit excellent growth potential. It's still early in the ballgame for these three acts. You'll probably notice in the weeks closing that the pace of the chart slows to a crawl as the holidazes set in. Noteworthy exceptions include our two MOST ADDEDs and CERTIFIEDS--FOREIGNER and PHILIP BAILEY. The FOREIGNER ballad was most added by a two to one margin over anything else this week. Over on the TOP FORTY side, FOREIGNER set a staggering new GAVIN record by being addded by over 75% of all our T40 stations. It'll take a special release to get through the chart gridlock and FOREIGNER is definitely one of them. Somewhat overshadowed is PHILIP BAILEY's XLNT performance. A ten point jump with loads of adds should propel this album into a substancially higher position during 1984's closing weeks and 1985 opening weeks. We finally get our live peak at FRANKIE this week. There have been ads in the paper by people trying to hustle seats to this sold out event. Their BORN TO RUN cover version is causing quite a commotion at many stations--with some listeners screaming BLASPHEMY!!! HEY PINHEADS! RELAX is what I say. REO and TOTO are moving swiftly, but like FRANKIE, they'll find the moving tough from here on up. The remainder of movers are spotty with DEEP PURPLE and BIG COUNTRY filling a pocket. Further down we find GENERAL PUBLIC and LOS LOBOS. These albums are still proving themselves with upward movement. Meanwhile...our second GAVIN COVERBOY, LONESOME LINDSEY BUCKINGHAM made the newspaper wire service this week. According to the daily rag here, he's getting tons of letters responding to the "ad" that preceeded his article in ROLLING STONE magazine. The ad was a spoof on one of those lonely heart personals looking for the perfect female companion...In between all the madness, we advise you to check out the CAL SOUNDTRACK by MARK KNOPFLER. Better yet, check out the movie, too...already in the stores is the COMPACT DISC release of PAT BENATAR's TROPICO, which should sound greeeaat on the air...til next week KZ.

XTC finally takes over the number one spot, with GENERAL PUBLIC forced to give up their throne, but not the fight. They also begrudgingly surrender their spot in the POWER TRIO to UB40, but don't count the PUBLIC out yet.

CERTIFIED recently, UB40's position is a result of solid support from both college and commercial stations.

Don't be deceived by the modest gains of LOS LOBOS and BIG COUNTRY - both are potentially top five records but may have to wait a few weeks (and get a shoe horn) to squeeze in.

Our CERTIFIED, HUNTERS & COLLECTORS makes a giant leap in the chart moving up 50% (29 to 13) in one week! Early activity has been great from college stations, but Alternative commercial airplay will be necessary to bring them to a POWER TRIO level.

Another independant album, LEAVING TRAINS is drawing noticable attention - debuting relatively high at #26. They share the same challenge facing HUNTERS & COLLECTORS, the need to acquire commercial radio support.

ANALYSIS

To quote MIKE HINRICHS-KHEY-EL PASO: "The chart can look boring when records only move up one or two positions". THE JUDDS are too powerful to let others leap and the Top Ten are demanding heavy-duty rotation. Just two debuts this week to our Top 40. The tighter the chart the fewer the debuts. All elements to become Certified were for MEL McDANIEL and his baby in her blue jeans. LARRY ROHRER at KIOV/KXRB believes McDANIEL has a manageable top ten. This might surprise those listed in the service section,plus other Gavin Reporters who have not received the record. EDDY RAVEN almost qualified to be Certified. Good sound for Country Radio but thus far listeners tendency to react has been gradual. The OAKS proceed effortlessly towards Top Ten, re-current, and hit bins. Next week will be important to the GAIL DAVIES and RICKY SKAGGS singles as they show signs of peaking. It's a nice start for STEVE WARINER and his new label (MCA) to be the Top Add.

subside. I mean there are certainly tensions within the group that have directly to do with those breakups. Stevie and I will always have a rather ... (pause) terse relationship, I would imagine. But that's just something you deal with; that's part of the territory.

G.: I read that Rolling Stone article "Lindsey Buckingham, The Lonely Guy." Did that bother you?

L.B.: Oh ... I don't know.

G.: The writer (Michael Goldberg), I actually know him because he did an article on The Gavin and spent a week just working here.

L.B.: He was a very nice guy. The thing is, you do a normal interview and you have things you want to say and you say them. It's difficult when someone sort of moves in for three days, it's hard to keep up any sort of defense. He's going to see whatever there is that's true. It has been a very lonely year for me. I broke up with my girlfriend. She moved out. I worked on the record, which was cathartic.

G.: Great therapy, huh?

L.B.: Great therapy! Much more fun and probably much cheaper than going to a shrink.

G.: (Laughter)

L.B.: But besides that, it has been a fairly barren year. It's been very significant on a work level, but really quite barren on an emotional level. I don't go out to Le Dome and pick up chicks. I can't handle that shit. So I mean ... I met Laurie ... that was a cool thing.

G.: Getting into the music here, the track "Loving Cup" has been getting airplay.

L.B.: That's what I hear.

G.: So it started with the drum track and just kind of spread.

L.B.: That happens a lot. In fact a lot of times, even if you do have a tune, it may change. I mean, that's part of the beauty of playing things yourself. It's not as political a process. You get to the point where it's like painting and you have this blank canvas and you're slopping paint around and you can always paint over a certain part, if YOU want. What happens is: the artist will start out by imposing his will on the canvas and at some point the canvas will take on a life of its own, and if you're willing to be vulnerable, it will lead you in a direction which you may not have perceived until you have gotten to a certain point. That happens with a lot of my tunes.

G.: So it's been ten years since you joined Fleetwood Mac. Actually even longer since the Buckingham/Nicks album. How have you seen this whole business change?

L.B.: I think it's gotten a lot more constricted. The radio play has gotten more constricted. You know, we were really the biggest band in the world for a while. I mean those years were pretty boom years for just the rock business in general with the huge amount of people at concerts, the big outdoor things. It's definitely gotten a lot more ... economical, shall we say (laughter).

G.: People are spending $25 for a concert ticket nowadays.

L.B.: I don't know how it's all changed. MTV has obviously changed a lot of things. A lot of people will say that the best cinema ever made was silent film because it was a purely visual form so that when talkies came about, it destroyed a certain aspect of purity that was early cinema. I guess you can make that same analogy with music versus video, although you don't have to watch MTV. You can still go out and buy the album and have it be completely an audio experience. I don't think MTV is really a bad thing. I think it certainly brought a lot of groups to light that were probably perceived as being quite left field ... and perhaps even audiences are being led a little farther to the left.

I've been accused of doing my first solo album from within the Tusk album.

G.: I think one of the positive things about MTV is that it has taken America by the bootstraps and shoved us into the '80s.

L.B.: Exactly.

G.: In a lot of ways, given the different medium and the technology, radio wasn't ready or willing to do that, yet.

L.B.: It (MTV) has allowed, in some senses, for American audiences to catch up with the sensibilities that were already prevalent, say, in England and other places. Whatever Joe Jackson has to say about it, you can't escape the thought that perhaps he just doesn't like the way he looks on TV.

G.: (laughter) Okay. I've got some word associations for you.

L.B.: Oh my god.

G.: Okay, here we go. The first one is Beach Boys.

L.B.: Major influence, obviously. Brian Wilson is probably the person I admire most musically. I think he was probably heavier than John Lennon or Paul McCartney. He didn't have anyone. Lennon and McCartney were extremely lucky to have each other. Had either one of them been in the position to shoulder the whole weight of the creativity, I don't think they would have gotten as far as they did.

G.: I never thought of that; that's a good point.

L.B.: So, as a single individual, I think he's the heaviest. If there are comparisons between Brian and myself, I would never put myself in the same league as him. We both tried to be experimental coming from extremely commercial groups. It took a little more toll on him than it appears to be taking on me. And he was not only made to feel responsible for letting down his co-workers, but those co-workers were also his family. He was responsible for the well-being of not only his brothers, but his mother and father, which is a little tough, I think.

G.: So here's the next one ... The Seventies.

L.B.: Hmmmm ... the seventies. What the seventies meant to me was that I joined a group that sold many millions of albums that has allowed me, among other things, to have the financial freedom to make the kind of choices I think are now important creatively. Without that period of time, there's no way that I would be able to do what I'm doing now.

G.: So it was a good time.

L.B.: It was a very good time. Extremely good. I mean, I wouldn't have given those times up for anything. Having known those people ... Mick is just an incredible guy. What can I say?

G.: The next one is an easier one. How about The Eighties?

L.B.: (laughs) The eighties. (pause) How about "uncertainty."

G.: One more thing. If you guys do another Fleetwood Mac album—

L.B.: We probably will.

G.: Make sure it's well recorded. At least as good as Go Insane.

L.B.: Yeah?

G.: You know, with the big picture. If it was technically well recorded, that would reel me back into what Fleetwood Mac is doing.

L.B.: Well, I think the whole working relationship with the people who were working and co-producing Fleetwood Mac had gotten quite stale by the time we did Mirage, at least that's the way I felt about it. It was politically unsatisfying as well. I think the way working with someone new has helped me, it will probably help the band as well. Someone with chops as a recordist, someone not rooted in the past, if you know what I mean. That would be a nice touch. Absolutely. I'll pass that on. ■

ANALYSIS

Watching the progress of our two "Certified" entries has been interesting due to one established artist like AL JARREAU and one unknown group like the FATBOYS making the same progress: airplay to chart gains, to top tens where PD's and MD's added them out of the box. Both debuted in our research the week of October 5th, and debuted on the chart the week of November 23rd. "Hit Factor" (the percentage of reporting stations that have it in their top 20) for JARREAU is 68% and for FATBOYS, 55%, the latter having the upper hand in total reports and points to cause it to chart slightly higher. (See full explanation of "Hit Factor" on page 6). The ladies take the "Chartbusters" slots - THELMA HOUSTON goes top 20 in many major markets and MADONNA has a "Hit Factor" of 50% already - half of our reporting stations chart her in their Top 20. KOOL & THE GANG fans have not been disappointed by "Misled" and are out there in the stores buying it - even the Top 40 market reports show some belief in their latest. Another debut artist, PAUL HARDCASTLE, surprises the charts with an hot instrumental offering that is making unexpected big moves where it's had any exposure. The continuing saga of "which PRINCE cut are you playing?" ends this week with the release of "I Would Die 4 U". However, the momentum previously gained by PRINCE & SHEILA E.'s "Erotic City" is so strong that I could say that it will have trouble catching up. But I won't, because it's PRINCE, and his 1984 track record speaks for itself. (Anyone who wasn't wearing purple in 1983 is wearing it now.) MIDNIGHT STAR not only goes gangbusters this week with a "Hit Factor" of 81%, it's also Dave Sholin's choice for "Record To Watch" for Top 40's, making it our "Pop Crossover" pick. Charts look like this: #1 at WBLX-Mobile, WQQK-Nashville, WWDM-Sumter, #2 at KIIZ-Killeen, #3 at KNOW-Austin, #4 at WBLZ-Cincinnati and WDKX-Rochester, #6 at WAMO-Pittsburg and WJAX-Jacksonville, #8 at KGFJ-Los Angeles, #10 at WANM-Tallahassee, KROF-Abbeville and WQOK-Greenville. As expected, NEW EDITION's new single, "Mr. Telephone Man", arrives as "Most Added", which includes WUSL/FM-Philadelphia, WQKS/FM-Williamsburg, WASH-Washington, WQKI-St. Matthews, KROF-Abbeville, WDMT-Cleveland, WTLC-Indianapolis, WJPC & WBMX/FM in Chicago, WDRQ-Detroit, KNOW-Austin, KGFJ-Los Angeles, etc. In the new section, two more ladies appear in "Up & Coming" - DIANA ROSS's new "Missing You" and ALICIA MYERS's "Appreciation". Both show strong potential for continued success.

PERSONAL PICKS

GLENN FREY-The Heat Is On (MCA) A burner that's destined to get a whole lot warmer before it cools off. The song is featured in the opening scenes of Eddie Murphy's new movie"The Beverly Hills Cop",a movie that I'm told many in Hollywood expect to be a box office giant this Christmas season. A rare one that Frey did not write that's tailormade for his rockin' side.

PRINCE-I Would Die 4 U (Warner Brothers) By now it seems almost anything that gets played from the "Purple Rain" soundtrack is a hit. The outrageous "Erotic City" and "Darling Nicki" are receiving some Top 40 play around the country but this somewhat tamer effort should find more acceptance from a majority of programmers. Once again he demonstrates his versatility as an artist and proves why he will be a contender for number one in a few formats this year.

RON'S PLACE

As usual, THE GAVIN REPORT does things a little differently in DECEMBER.

On DECEMBER 14th we publish our Top 100's for 1984 in every format as part of that issue.

On DECEMBER 21st we'll publish our last issue of 1984 - giving programmers a final current chart to carry through the Holidays. Reporting deadlines for all formats will be TUESDAY night, DECEMBER 18th. That last issue will be mailed on WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 19th.

On DECEMBER 21st, THE GAVIN REPORT closes for its annual 2-week Holiday hiatus. THE GAVIN REPORT will then re-open on MONDAY, JANUARY 7th.

Ron Fell
ALBUMS OF THE WEEK

November 30, 1984

"Word Of Mouth"-The Kinks (Arista) As if to prove that 22 years of relative togetherness hasn't created a musical paunch on the lads, Ray Davies and mates make a convincing musical statement. Unlike the appropriately titled '83 effort, "State Of Confusion", "Word Of Mouth" spreads the rock 'n' roll gospel with aerobic energy. Most songs are punctuated by hot-mixed guitars and muscular percussion. Lyrics seem to agitate and titilate more than on recent Kinks chronicles. Stylistically, "Word Of Mouth" occasionally echoes the root music of past generations, but its thrust is predominantly in tune with today and tomorrow. DO IT AGAIN/SUMMER'S GONE/ MASSIVE REDUCTIONS/GOING SOLO/ SOLD ME OUT

"Lush Life"-Linda Ronstadt (Asylum) When we last heard from Linda she was up in the attic,rummaging through the steamer trunks and hatboxes of another era. Her discovery was our pleasure,as those forgotten "unforgettables" were restored in a respectful manner on "What's New". When she first presented the tapes from the "What's New" sessions with Nelson Riddle last year you can bet the skeptics were legion. Besides selling through to her many established fans she also brought hundreds of thousands of otherwise passive record buyers into the stores. Teamed up again with Nelson Riddle (who arranged this style of music in its first heyday), Linda dusts off another wonderful collections of standards. Riddle's arrangements are subtle, delicate and uncompromisingly lush. (as the title implies.) Linda's readings are reverential, precise and monumental testimony to what was the golden age of melody. My favorites; WHEN I FALL IN LOVE, SKYLARK, I'M A FOOL TO WANT YOU and WHEN YOUR LOVER HAS GONE sound as though they were written for her voice.

The Gavin Report is saddened to learn of the death of veteran KMOX-ST.LOUIS broadcaster JACK CARNEY. JACK died early this week of a heart attack after a scuba diving lesson. JACK was a true personality with a rare gift to gab, the likes of which may never again be heard on America's airwaves. Our sincerest condolences go out to his family, his many co-workers and thousands of loyal fans who'll not soon forget the legend that was JACK CARNEY.
